Every St. Louis itinerary should start with a visit to Gateway Arch National Park

Discover more local landmarks where you can connect with other parts of St. Louis' history.

Did you know that you can take a tram ride to the top of the Gateway Arch? After you squeeze into a futuristic, five-person pod, it takes four minutes to ascend. At the top of the 630-foot-tall monument, small windows reveal unbeatable bird's-eye views.

Below the iconic landmark, the Museum at the Gateway Arch offers a free, innovative and accessible experience, showcasing more than 200 years of St. Louis history. While you're here, check out Cobblestones & Courage, an award-winning 3D movie that transports visitors to the 1850s St. Louis riverfront era.

For the best views of the St. Louis skyline, though, you'll want to climb aboard the Riverboats at the Gateway Arch. Cruises are narrated by captains from the National Park Service, who bring the history of the Mississippi River to life!

HISTORY REVISITED

NEW LIFE FOR THE OLD COURTHOUSE

One of the most important historic sites in the U.S., the Old Courthouse reopens this spring after a two-year, multimillion-dollar renovation focused on increased accessibility, structural improvements and new exhibitory.

Topped by an Italian Renaissance-style, wrought-iron dome, the Old Courthouse was built between 1839 and 1862, and it heard more than 300 freedom suits, including the pivotal Dred and Harriet Scott cases, before the American Civil War. It's also where Virginia Minor sued for her right to vote in Missouri in 1872 – the same year that Susan B. Anthony was arrested for trying to vote.

At the Old Courthouse, you can stand where history happened. The new galleries allow visitors to dive deeper into stories of the past, and upcoming exhibits will spotlight the building's architecture, craftsmanship and artistry; explain the importance of courts in our society; and explore the legacy of enslaved individuals seeking freedom in St. Louis.

Cultural festivals for St. Patrick's Day and Cinco de Mayo enliven the streets of the city, and even if it's raining, you can stay dry at one of our world-class museums, galleries or theaters. In March, don't miss Art in Bloom, the Saint Louis Art Museum's annual celebration of flowers and fine art, and in April, our attention turns to Mother Earth as the St. Louis Earth Day Festival takes over Forest Park.

CINCO DE MAYO FESTIVAL

CREVE COEUR PARK

SUMMER

A new season brings new adventures. Let the Lou surprise you with al fresco arts, music festivals and outdoor exploration. Summer is the perfect time to connect with our Great Rivers via Big Muddy Adventures, the Riverboats at the Gateway Arch, Miss Augusta and Brookdale Farms, or you can enjoy our expansive and diverse green spaces, from the Columbia Bottom Conservation Area to Shaw Nature Reserve and Creve Coeur Park to Tower Grove Park. St. Louis is also known for its free attractions and events, which make it easy to stick to a budget while enjoying everything that we have to offer. The Saint Louis Zoo, Laumeier Sculpture Park and Grant's Farm are obvious choices in summer, but have you considered the St. Louis Shakespeare Festival in Forest Park, the Whitaker Music Festival at the Missouri Botanical Garden and Blues at the Arch in Gateway Arch National Park?

Other signature events include PrideFest, Festival of Nations and the Tennessee Williams Festival. The season closes with Music at the Intersection, one of the best funk and soul festivals in the world, and the Great Forest Park Balloon Glow and Race, one of St. Louis' most idyllic events. Pour on our secret sauce – beer, barbecue and ice cream – and St. Louis becomes an undeniably epic summer vacation destination.

ART IN BLOOM

THE GREAT FOREST PARK BALLOON GLOW AND RACE

FALL

Fall means mild weather, gorgeous foliage and a slew of things to do in the Gateway City. As apple orchards and pumpkin patches fill up, so does our events calendar. Plan your trip around Evolution Festival, which blends live music, bold beverages and barbecue traditions; the St. Louis Renaissance Festival, where armored jousting, aerial acts and vintage wares are customary; or Fright Fest, which offers thrills both on and off the rides at Six Flags St. Louis. Our brewing heritage also inspires Oktoberfest celebrations featuring cold beer served in commemorative steins. Frothy festivities take place at Grant's Farm and Eckert's Orchards as well as in The Grove and Soulard neighborhoods. Although St. Louis has enough attractions, activities and events to keep you busy until winter, you can also treat yourself to a day at the wineries outside the metro area. Home to Augusta Winery, Balducci Vineyards, Montelle Winery and Mount Pleasant Estates, the charming hamlet of Augusta, Missouri, has long been a road-trip favorite.

History of the Area

During the last 50 years, the Delmar Loop has evolved into one of the most vibrant and entertaining areas in the US.

1970s

The revitalization of The Loop began in the early 1970s. Nationally renowned restaurant and music club Blueberry Hill was the first of a new era of unique owner-operated businesses. Then came record stores, a bookstore and more.

1980s

The non-profit St. Louis Walk of Fame was founded and became a unifying attraction for the area. Now more than 170 stars and informative plaques are embedded in the sidewalks!

1990s

The elegant 1924 Tivoli Movie Theatre was beautifully restored and, along with many new gift shops and clothing boutiques, signaled The Loop had arrived.

2000s

Opening in 2,000 was The Pageant, a 2,000+ capacity concert venue that has featured artists such as Bob Dylan, Sting, Imagine Dragons, Janelle Monáe, Robert Plant, Dolly Parton, and Tiffany Haddish.

Many consider The Loop the live music center of St. Louis with 6 stages on which you can enjoy music of all genres.

Pin-Up Bowl's intimate 8-lane bowling attraction debuted, followed by the AAA 4-diamond Moonrise Hotel that features 125 rooms plus the largest man-made moon rotating above the indoor-outdoor rooftop Twilight Room with its great views of St. Louis.

Get your photo with the 8-ft, in-motion Chuck Berry Statue, dedicated to the Father of Rock & Roll.

2010s

United Provisions Grocery opened featuring items from around the globe. The 750-capacity Delmar Hall music venue debuted highlighting performers from St. Louis and other cities and countries.

2020s

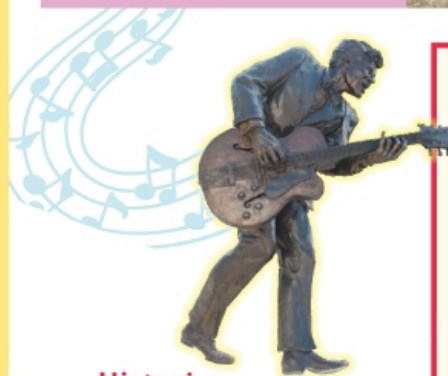

Swade Cannabis Dispensary opened in 2021 and in 2023 Magic Mini Golf wowed everyone with its 18 holes of indoor miniature golf, 2 indoor shuffleboard courts, and 5-car indoor Ferris wheel. Party on!

11 Hidden Gems

Discover under-the-radar and out-of-the-ordinary destinations in St. Louis

BELLEFONTAINE CEMETERY AND ARBORETUM

With more than 175 years of history, Bellefontaine Cemetery and Arboretum is not only a tranquil burial site but also a beloved local landmark and a shining example of environmental stewardship. Perched on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River, the cemetery consists of 314 acres, containing more than 9,500 trees that represent 560 species. As you wander among the mature trees, take note of familiar names on some of the headstones, monuments and mausoleums. American explorer William Clark, writer and artist

William S. Burroughs and co-founder of Anheuser-Busch Adolphus Busch are among the most notable people buried here, and you can spot surnames that identify St. Louis buildings and parks, including Barnes, Bixby, McMillan, Shaw and Wainwright. "We're always uncovering new pieces of history," Sherry Smith, president and CEO of Bellefontaine Cemetery and Arboretum, says, "and we get to share that information with residents and visitors alike during tours and events so that they can better understand how St. Louis culture evolved."

CAMPBELL HOUSE MUSEUM

Built in 1851 as the first house in the elegant Lucas Place neighborhood, the Campbell House Museum is a pristine time capsule that enlivens the history of St. Louis and Westward Expansion through the story of the Campbell family and their home. Renowned fur trader and entrepreneur Robert Campbell and various members of his family lived in the house from 1854 to 1938, and today, the museum still contains hundreds of their original possessions, including furniture, fixtures, paintings, clothing, family documents, carriages and a unique set of interior photographs taken in the mid-1880s when the house was the center of St. Louis society. In 1977, the Campbell House was listed on the National Register of Historic Places, and in 2005, the Campbell House Museum completed a meticulous, five-year restoration, returning the building to its opulent appearance.

CATHEDRAL BASILICA OF ST. LOUIS

More than a Roman Catholic Church, the Cathedral Basilica of St. Louis is a distinguished work of art. With its lofty vaults and radiant mosaics, the sheer scale of the building's beauty is awe-inspiring. In its creation, more than a dozen architects' and artisans' concepts coalesced into a magnificently well-integrated and harmonious whole, and in 2023, a transformative lighting design project illuminated the interior, brightening the mosaics made of more than 30 million tesserae, artworks and architecture that visitors couldn't previously see in such detail. An interpretive approach was also used to highlight the cathedral's marble statues, drawing attention to elements that tell its story.

ENDANGERED WOLF CENTER

If asked to think of a wolf, what image comes to mind? The Big Bad Wolf in Little Red Riding Hood? The wolf who huffs and puffs and blows down houses in The Three Little Pigs? A werewolf? The Endangered Wolf Center in Eureka aims to dispel that negative imagery and promote the conservation of Mexican wolves and American red wolves by breeding and reintroducing them into the wild. Arguably the best-kept secret in the St. Louis area, the center offers a variety of daytime tours – from the signature endangered species tour to a specialized photography tour – as well as nighttime howls that teach guests about wolf communication. The tours are a unique opportunity to see – or hear – the wolves and meet other endangered species of canids such as Lucky, the only maned wolf ambassador in the world.

FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT HOUSE IN EBSWORTH PARK

Immerse yourself in Frank Lloyd Wright's distinctive design. Nestled on more than 10 acres of grassy fields beside a grove of persimmon trees in Kirkwood, the Frank Lloyd Wright House in Ebsworth Park was built for Russell and Ruth Kraus in the 1950s, and today, it remains an excellent example of Wright's democratic vision to provide middle-class Americans with beautiful architecture at an affordable cost. The 1,900-square-foot residence – one of Wright's Usonian homes – has a complex floor plan of intersecting parallelograms. Inside the house, tidewater red cypress lines the walls and ceilings, while red-hued concrete slabs cover the floors. Wandering from room to room, you'll encounter stained glass designed by Russell Kraus and beds shaped like parallelograms, alongside other zany features. Tours of the home are available year-round, and advance booking is recommended.

The Cathedral Basilica of St. Louis houses the largest collection of mosaics in the world outside Russia!

JEFFERSON BARRACKS TELEPHONE MUSEUM

Whether you remember rotary dial phones or not, you'll have a blast poking around the Jefferson Barracks Telephone Museum. The self-guided history museum in Jefferson Barracks Park has hands-on displays alongside an extensive collection of telephones manufactured from the late 1800s through 2012. Its exhibits also invite people to reminisce about the comical lack of privacy on a party line, the juvenile joy of three-way calling, the newfound freedom of cordless phones and other happy memories of telephonic communication. In the last room, don't miss the character telephone exhibit where phones take the shape of Snoopy, Pac-Man, the Keebler Elf, the Jolly Green Giant, bumper cars and corn on the cob.

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY MUSEUM OF ART

One of the best university art museums in the U.S., the Saint Louis University Museum of Art boasts an impressive permanent collection of works by modern masters. Pop art by Andy Warhol, avant-garde glass by Dale Chihuly, paradoxical pieces by Roy Lichtenstein, abstract portraits from Chuck Close and more sit inside the stunning Beaux-Arts building, which dates to the turn of the 20th century.

SOLDIERS MEMORIAL MILITARY MUSEUM

Framed by four iconic Walker Hancock sculptures, Soldiers Memorial Military Museum honors local military service members, veterans and their families. Hidden in plain sight in downtown St. Louis, the state-of-the-art museum has been operated by the Missouri Historical Society since November 2015. With every exhibition, director Mikall Venso aims to put artifacts into context, illuminating their deeper meanings for visitors. Admission is always free, and exhibitions change over time.

ULYSSES S. GRANT NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

Known as the victorious Civil War general who saved the Union and the 18th President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant married Julia Dent in 1848 and lived at her family home, White Haven, from 1854 to 1859. At the Ulysses S. Grant National Historic Site, watch the 22-minute orientation film, which provides more insights into Grant's military service and two terms as president, and then take a guided tour of White Haven, which was run by an enslaved African American workforce before the Civil War. The park museum – which is housed in a historic horse stable designed by Grant – features six permanent exhibits that dig deeper into the rich and varied history and culture of the area.

THE WALLS OFF WASHINGTON

THE WALLS OFF WASHINGTON

An inspirational backdrop for the Grand Center Arts District, The Walls Off Washington encompasses 20 murals, all within a walkable space accessed via Sophie's Artist Lounge. Tour the murals, beginning with Lift As You Climb, a vibrant work by Derrick Adams that depicts eye-catching figures helping each other climb colorful ladders to the top of the building, and don't miss J'Ai Deux Amours by C215, in which St. Louis native Josephine Baker wears beads and an endearing smile. "We're carefully curating this mural experience so that it shines a positive light on St. Louis," Gina Grafos, director and chief curator of visual and literal arts at Kranzberg Arts Foundation, says. "We believe St. Louis should be respected; it should be loved." Along with the art, you can enjoy a coffee drink from Blueprint Coffee at High Low, which provides the "canvas" for Kranzbergville, a playful mural that prolific international artist Kenny Scharf finished in 72 hours.

WORLD BIRD SANCTUARY

Soaring eagles, waddling pelicans and hooting owls draw ornithophiles and outdoor enthusiasts alike to this hidden gem. Encompassing more than 305 acres of hardwood forest and housing more than 200 birds of prey, World Bird Sanctuary teaches visitors about all manner of winged friends through one-of-a-kind wildlife experiences. The crows and ravens even put on a show that teaches people to recycle! The staff aims to deliver serious messages in fun ways while getting visitors to love the birds as much as they do. After all, we don't know where the next great naturalist will find inspiration. It could be a kid who meets an Egyptian vulture at World Bird Sanctuary.

A pint away from Busch Stadium, the original tasting room in LaSalle Park features industrial chic décor with exposed brick and arcade games lining the walls, while 4 Hands at The District encompasses a sun-soaked courtyard with two open-air pavilions, a turf viewing field, a 20-by-11-foot LED screen and a 70-foot stage. The latter also has a walk-up counter operated by Hi-Pointe Drive-In, which specializes in hamburgers, french fries and milkshakes. At the newest tasting room in Kirkwood, you can feast on a selection of seafood from Peacemaker Lobster & Crab Co. in the beautifully landscaped backyard. No matter where you stop, you'll find an ever-evolving lineup of craft beer that will quench your cravings.

Alpha BREWING CO.

Sours put Alpha Brewing Co. on the map. Fruited and barrel-aged, its suds range from sour blonde ale brewed with tangerine to sour black ale aged in Pinot Noir barrels to sour raspberry blonde ale aged in oak foeders. At its bustling brewery and taproom in the Tower Grove South neighborhood, the kitchen dishes out chicken wings, smash burgers and patty melts, leaving you thirsty for more beer. Looking towards the future, Alpha Brewing Co. is committed to a sustainable business model. A proud member of the Green Dining Alliance, the company offers charging stations for electric cars, fills patio spaces with native plants and partners with New Earth Farm to compost organic waste. Last year, the company opened a second location at the Delmar Maker District, which focuses on spirits, such as Squoosh, a fruited vodka. Beer devotees need not worry, though; the "brewstillery" also has 10 taps dedicated to Alpha Brewing Co. suds.

Anheuser-Busch

Founded in the 1850s as a small neighborhood brewery, Anheuser-Busch quickly transformed from a local fixture into a national presence. Today, it serves as a hub for brewing innovation, using the highest-quality ingredients grown by American farmers to produce umpteen brands of beer. St. Louis is home to the titan's flagship brewery, which operates out of historic, red-brick buildings. Hop on a tour for a glimpse inside them. Each tour explains the life of an Anheuser-Busch beer from seed to glass – the Finisher Tour will even give you a taste of beer straight from the finishing cellars – and they end at the Anheuser-Busch Biergarten where you can enjoy a cold one on the house!

FLAGSHIP PINT:

OJ Run

With a citrusy flavor and floral aroma, OJ Run is a popular choice. The imperial hazy IPA is dry hopped with Citra, Galaxy and Amarillo.

Narrow Gauge BREWING CO.

A delicious addition to Florissant, Narrow Gauge Brewing Co. has a robust lineup of lagers, ales, IPAs, porters, stouts and sours, so you're bound to find a brew that appeals to your palate. Curious quaffers might also consider the mixed fermentation bottles – each with its own intricate and exciting story. The Begin Anew Blend #5, for instance, is a sour blonde ale, foeder-fermented and wine barrel-aged for 15 months. It was then aged on a bed of boysenberries and red and black currants for an additional nine months before it was bottled. Melomel, a type of mead fermented with clover honey and a variety of fresh fruits – think boysenberries, cherries, black currants and marionberries – is also sold in bottles at the brewery's new taproom. What will you try first?

FLAGSHIP PINT:

Pale Ale

Easy to drink, refreshing and satisfying, Schlafly's Pale Ale is the original session beer. It was born of heritage and artistry, giving imbibers a taste of the brewery's genuine approach to producing great beer.

Schlafly Beer

Difficult to say but easy to love, Schlafly is a craft beer pioneer in the city with the country's best beer scene. Although meticulous about consistency, the brewery is in a constant state of exploration, and its repertoire of more than 60 styles of beer ranges from classic to experimental. Enjoy pale ale, oatmeal stout, raspberry hefeweizen, Mexican lager and more at the historic Schlafly Tap Room in Downtown West or Schlafly Bottleworks in Maplewood. The company also distributes beer in 17 states, if you want to stock your fridge.

4 HANDS + PEACEMAKER KIRKWOOD

Side Project BREWING

Praised for its funky, experimental brews, Side Project Brewing has a long list of accolades. In 2020 and 2023, RateBeer named it the No. 2 brewery in the world; in 2015, Side Project Cellar – the company's Belgian-inspired beer, wine and spirits bar – earned a James Beard Award nomination for Outstanding Bar Program; and in 2014, Forbes put Side Project's executive chef, Adam Altnether, on its list of 30 under 30. There's no question that the brewery pushes the boundaries of the region's beverage scene, and it wants to continue to evolve and move forward. You can get a taste of Side Project's creations at any of its three locations – The Cellar, The Brewery and The Patio – all of which are located in Maplewood. With ever-changing taps, there's no "flagship pint," but you can dream about a wine barrel-aged tart witbier with orange peel and coriander and a Brettanomyces (wild yeast strain) pale ale aged in oak with calamansi, Tanzania and Madagascar vanilla and toasted coconut.

FLAGSHIP PINT:

Zwickel

Zwickel is the star of Urban Chestnut's Reverence Series featuring timeless, European-style beers. Bready, lightly hopped and naturally cloudy, the classic Bavarian Lager has a smooth finish. Prost!

Urban Chestnut BREWING CO.

Traditionally oriented yet unconventionally minded, Urban Chestnut Brewing Co. pays homage to the heritage of beer with classically crafted European styles while contributing to the revolution of craft beer with modernized, artisanal American styles. The company has a bierhall in The Grove, a biergarten in Midtown and a brewery in Bavaria near the hometown of brewmaster Florian Kuplent. At every location, beer lovers gather around pints that feature the brewery's proprietary yeast strains, which give its products unrivaled flavor.

KIDDING AROUND TOWN

The ultimate 48-hour itinerary for kids and their parents

SOPHIA M. SACHS BUTTERFLY HOUSE

Explore more kid-friendly attractions and activities that will spark their imaginations.

Accessible and entertaining, St. Louis is a one-of-a-kind wonderland where youngsters – and the young at heart – can explore our Great Rivers, climb to new heights and encounter adorable animals. If you only have two days in St. Louis, these are the highlights to hit.

Day 1

After a restful night in a comfortable hotel, pop into Chris' Pancake & Dining for brunch with your brood. Once you get your fill of flapjacks, drive the short distance to Forest Park where adventure awaits at free attractions such as the Saint Louis Science Center and the Saint Louis Zoo.

The former specializes in “aha!” moments, encouraging inquisitive visitors to test the laws of physics, inspect an animatronic Tyrannosaurus rex and escape to outer space via the James S. McDonnell Planetarium. It's also a great option for rainy travel days.

At the latter, kids can roam, run and revel alongside swinging monkeys, squawking penguins, strutting giraffes and splashing bears. For an experience unlike any other, book a behind-the-scenes tour – just imagine wading with rays, feeding black rhinoceros and snapping selfies with giant tortoises, among other extraordinary experiences.

Across the street, Turtle Playground is a magnet for little kids with a lot of energy, as they get to clamber on the backs of giant reptiles. Represented in concrete are a common snapping turtle, softshell turtle, red-eared slider, Mississippi map turtle, stinkpot turtle and three box turtles, plus seven oversized turtle eggs and a long, sinuous snake that appears to be taking a bite out of the nearby overpass.

If you're looking for a lunch spot before your next stop, consider the Delmar Loop. Blueberry Hill, a memorabilia-filled landmark, has everything kids crave – mozzarella sticks, chicken tenders, grilled cheese and entertainment – while Fitz's boasts the best ice cream floats in town.

Revitalized, choose between three hands-on activities. Make a move to the World Chess Hall of Fame in the Central West End – the world's largest chess piece marks the spot! Take your preschoolers and young children to The Magic House in Kirkwood where they can stand inside a bubble, discover a new culture and explore a child-size village. Or unleash your independent offspring at City Museum, a mosaic jungle of underground tunnels, enchanted caves and multistory slides. Older kids can also get crafty at MADE for Kids, which invites them to experiment with 3D printing, laser cutting and more.

End the day on the Mississippi River with a 45-minute paddle aboard a Big Muddy Adventures canoe, followed by St. Louis-style barbecue at Salt + Smoke or Sugarfire Smoke House, or a two-hour dinner cruise aboard the Riverboats at the Gateway Arch. Both excursions offer unparalleled views of the working riverfront and gleaming skyline.

ECONOMY MUSEUM

Show me the money! At the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, hands-on, technology-driven activities, such as buying stocks on the International Stock Exchange, teach visitors about the economy.

LONE ELK PARK

It's a deer. It's a bison. It's a wild turkey! This 546-acre wildlife management area offers frequent wildlife sightings whether you drive or walk through the park.

MISSOURI HISTORY MUSEUM

Explore the storied history of St. Louis, from its founding in 1764 to the 1904 World's Fair to our present-day metropolis.

THE BEST THINGS IN LIFE ARE FREE

Travel can get expensive. Luckily, St. Louis has endless opportunities for free family fun! Along with the free activities above, consider adding these spots to your itinerary.

Day 2

Now that you have a feel for the region – and what your family wants to do – you can go in a few different directions. If it's a nice day, start at the Missouri Botanical Garden. Beloved by locals for its beauty and vibrancy, it also has one of the best playgrounds in St. Louis, which introduces kids to the significance of plants and nature in fun and innovative ways. One block from the Garden, Baileys' Range serves smothered fries, specialty burgers and housemade milkshakes for lunch.

Animal lovers will then want to head to Grant's Farm. The local treasure boasts more than 900 animals, including free-roaming antelope, deer and bovines that you can spot during a short tram ride through the lush grounds. When the tram stops, you'll have to decide what to do first: feed the goats, pet the Clydesdales, ride a camel or enter the birdcage. At the Bauernhof, guests 21 and older can also enjoy two free beers from Anheuser-Busch. Yes, you read that right. Welcome to St. Louis!

If you're looking for an adrenaline rush, we've got you covered. RYZE Adventure Park in Maryland Heights offers more than 100 obstacles – plus, a heart-stopping zip line and a death-defying free fall – on its four-story Adventure Tower. The tower isn't linear, so you can make your own course, picking and choosing the activities and obstacles that you want to do. Are you up for the challenge?

If rollercoasters are more your speed, make Six Flags St. Louis your next stop. The amusement park in Eureka continues to add attractions, appealing to thrill-seekers of all ages. Little ones will especially love Bugs Bunny National Park where they can ride, fly, spin and climb to their hearts' content.

St. Louis averages 201 sunny days a year, but when the weather isn't cooperating, you can still have a blast. In Chesterfield, check out the Sophia M. Sachs Butterfly House, Topgolf and Main Event.

On any given day, more than 60 species of tropical butterflies dance through the conservatory at the Butterfly House, while climate-controlled hitting bays allow you to perfect your swing at Topgolf, which has a location in Midtown, too. For unlimited fun under one roof, hunker down at Main Event. From bowling to laser tag and billiards to miniature golf, every activity and game is designed to bring families together.

To test your puzzle-solving skills, embark on a story-driven quest at Adventures of Intrigue. An attraction unlike any other in the Midwest, the open-concept escape room offers otherworldly entertainment without a time limit!

After a fun-filled day, you're going to be hungry. Kid-friendly restaurants abound in the region, and local favorites include Grace Meat + Three, Pastaria, Steve's Hot Dogs, The Frisco Barroom and The Soda Fountain. Savor a scrumptious meal and then get a good night's sleep.

MUSEUM AT THE GATEWAY ARCH

The Gateway Arch offers sights above — and below! With six interactive and accessible museum galleries, you'll hear untold stories of the city's founding, examine westward expansion from multiple perspectives and see artifacts commemorating America's pioneering spirit.

NATIONAL GREAT RIVERS MUSEUM

The Mighty Mississippi has many stories to tell, and the National Great Rivers Museum wants to share them with you at its 12,000-square-foot facility adjacent to Melvin Price Locks and Dam.

PURINA FARMS

The Purina Farms Visitor Center deals in unconditional love. From mid-April through October, you can see the Purina Incredible Dog Team demonstrate its skills, hang with adoptable cats and meet domestic farm animals.

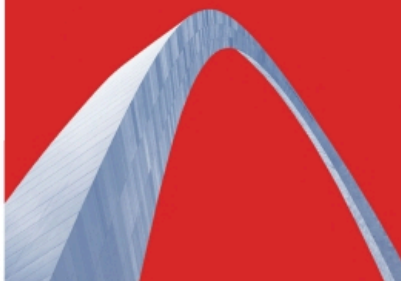

RAWLINGS EXPERIENCE

MAKE YOUR TRIP A

Masterpiece

See the St. Louis arts-and-culture scene through the eyes of four leaders at the helm

THE FABULOUS FOX

MARIE-HÉLÈNE BERNARD

PRESIDENT AND CEO OF THE ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Your artsy itinerary will change with the season. Spring ushers in Opera Theatre of Saint Louis, which has become one of the most progressive opera companies in the world. Encompassing four productions sung in English with projected English subtitles, its annual festival season proves that opera can be innovative, inclusive and fun; it can feel truly alive. The sets, costumes, melodies, singing and acting all harmonize to tell a story, inviting you into a surprising new world.

Summer then offers arts al fresco at the St. Louis Shakespeare Festival and The Muny – the latter being a regular destination for my family – and winter urges you indoors to marvel at work by the Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis, Jazz St. Louis and Saint Louis Dance Theatre.

Although there's a seasonality to our arts scene, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra performs from September through June, accommodating most visitors with our vast programming. Throughout the year, we also partner with arts organizations such as the Pulitzer Arts Foundation and The Sheldon Concert Hall and Art Galleries to put on concerts at their venues, where attendees can get an extra dose of arts and culture.

As a resident of St. Louis, I love exploring different neighborhoods and experiencing the art that they house. The Kirkwood Performing Arts Center, where STAGES St. Louis performs from June through October, is in my backyard, and I really enjoy going there as well as Laumeier Sculpture Park. I'm also a huge fan of architecture. For me, art is never dissociated from architecture.

It's important to support independent artists and underground musicians, too. Cbabi Bayoc, an internationally known visual artist and illustrator, has a studio on Washington Avenue that I believe everyone will enjoy. He has a beautiful message for the community, and he makes his art affordable for all.

St. Louis sustains an astoundingly high quality of art, and our arts-and-culture scene is remarkably innovative. We consistently produce new creations that are the envy of other communities, and we make them accessible to residents and visitors alike. I'm so proud of the creative work that we do collectively.

FEEL THE POWER OF MUSIC AT POWELL HALL

Home to the Grammy Award-winning St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Powell Hall will reopen this year after a multimillion-dollar expansion and renovation. The project will transform every aspect of audience and artist experience, positioning the venue as a world-class music center for future generations.

Enhancements to the box office, lobby, auditorium seats and elevators, among other public amenities, will provide greater access to music and the arts in the region. Behind the scenes, new and improved features such as dressing rooms, practice rooms, a musician lounge, a music library and an education and learning center will make Powell Hall a more welcoming experience for visiting artists, as well.

When the state-of-the-art music center reopens, a visit should be at the top of your bucket list. Until then, you can enjoy performances such as Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet," Brahms' "Violin Concerto" and Dvořák's "Cello Concerto" at the Touhill Performing Arts Center and Stifel Theatre, where the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is currently playing.

TOM RIDGELY

PRODUCING ARTISTIC DIRECTOR OF THE ST. LOUIS SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

It won't come as a great shock that I'm going to talk about the theater scene. In case you don't know, theater is big in St. Louis, and we have a lot of incredibly robust companies and organizations that stage productions throughout the year. Towards the beginning of June, though, performances by The Fabulous Fox, the St. Louis Shakespeare Festival, Opera Theatre of Saint Louis, STAGES St. Louis, The St. Louis Black Repertory Company, The Muny and Circus Flora all overlap, making it one of the best times to visit if you love theater.

If you have kids like mine, they'll love the free cultural attractions in Forest Park, including the Saint Louis Art Museum, Missouri History Museum and Saint Louis Zoo. If it's your first visit, prepare to be blown away! Even if you've been 100 times, there's always something new to discover.

Laumeier Sculpture Park is another unique attraction where you can get up close and personal with these large-scale sculptures in this beautiful park. Every year over Mother's Day weekend, it also hosts an art fair that showcases 150 juried artists from across the country and their phenomenal work.

St. Louis is a hotbed of creation. Whether you're interested in art, music, theater or dance, you'll find work here that has an impact on the national arts-and-culture scene.

If you want to learn more about St. Louis' historic architecture and iconic structures, its famous landmarks and overlooked treasures, book a tour with Landmarks Downtown Walking Tours, which also focuses on the art of historic preservation.

KIRVEN DOUTHIT-BOYD

ARTISTIC DIRECTOR OF SAINT LOUIS DANCE THEATRE

I'm always ready to talk about the arts – that's my thing! I have to start with the upcoming productions by Saint Louis Dance Theatre, including two world premieres, as they're wonderful opportunities for anyone in St. Louis to see a high caliber of contemporary dance. Last year, we partnered with Jazz St. Louis to put an exciting spin on Duke Ellington's Nutcracker Suite, so I also encourage folks to get tickets to Jazz at the Bistro where they can hear good music and eat good food.

For more performing arts, look to The St. Louis Black Repertory Company. Founder and producing director Ron Himes produces, commissions and reimagines work written by Black playwrights, and every year, he stages incredible theater productions that provide a moving cultural experience to a diverse audience. The Muny, a massive outdoor theater in Forest Park, presents a magnificent lineup of musicals every summer, too. I always have a good time when I go there.

The Saint Louis Art Museum has planned some incredible exhibitions for the 2025 season, as well. Min Jung Kim, the Barbara B. Taylor Director of the Saint Louis Art Museum, has done a phenomenal job of curating beautiful, cultural artwork that will be on display right here.

As you explore the region, I can almost guarantee that you'll come across some of our public art. One of my favorite pieces is at Energizer Park, where St. Louis CITY SC plays. It's called Pillars of the Valley, and it's inspired by the people who lived in Mill Creek Valley, one of whom was Josephine Baker.

If you love art, music, dance, theater – or all of the above – St. Louis is an ideal destination. I moved from New York City to St. Louis because of the vastness of the arts here, and along with my counterparts at other organizations, I'm committed to our arts-and-culture ecosystem. Every day, we find new ways to expand our offerings and remove barriers so that everyone can experience them.

LEAH MERRIMAN

OWNER OF GREEN DOOR ART GALLERY

As the new owner, I have to recommend Green Door Art Gallery in Webster Groves. The gallery features work by 36 resident artists, making it a great place to experience local art. If you're visiting in September, don't miss the Old Webster Jazz & Blues Festival, which soulful bluesman Marquise Knox has headlined for the last few years. It's possibly the most family-friendly music festival on the planet, and not surprisingly, it's free!

If you want to see international old masters, the Saint Louis Art Museum is your best bet. The museum's expansive collection is always free, and its special exhibitions are free on Fridays. For contemporary art, I encourage everyone to check out the rotating exhibitions at 21c Museum Hotel St. Louis and Angad Arts Hotel. You don't have to stay at the hotels to enjoy the artwork – although, the rooms are sensational. At Angad Arts Hotel, you can even choose the color of your room!

I also have to give a shout-out to Third Degree Glass Factory, which hosted my first significant solo exhibition. Whether you want to shop for handmade glass art or take a glassblowing class, it's worth a stop.

It might seem like an unlikely suggestion, but the Cathedral Basilica of St. Louis is another great spot for art lovers. It houses the largest collection of mosaics in the world outside Russia, and in the basement, the Mosaic Museum uses depictions of the design and the installation to explain how they were created.

Outside the Cathedral Basilica, St. Louis architecture is fascinating. When you drive through other cities, they're so beige, both literally and figuratively. St. Louis pops with various shades of red and brown brick. If you love bricks as much as I do – my favorite documentary, Brick By Chance and Fortune, tells the story of brick in St. Louis – walk around neighborhoods such as Laclede's Landing, Soulard and The Hill.

I've spent a lot of hours at Arkadin Cinema & Bar, and if you're a film fanatic like me, you'll want to visit St. Louis during one of our film festivals. The St. Louis Filmmakers Showcase as well as the St. Louis International Film Festival are highlights of our yearly event calendar.

For live music, I'm drawn to more intimate venues such as Delmar Hall and The Pageant, while Hollywood Casino Amphitheatre – St. Louis and Chesterfield Amphitheater are tremendous outdoor venues. Lawn seats are pretty affordable, and it's fun to watch the sun set as the show starts.

See more of St. Louis' artsy side.

Next door to The Honky Tonk, The Garage offers sporadic musical events in a wide-open space. Parking lines stripe the floor, and graffiti covers the rest of the surfaces - from the walls to the rafters - giving The Garage an authentic and original vibe.

JAZZ ST. LOUIS

Jazz St. Louis takes rapt audiences on sonic adventures. Dedicated to the preservation and advancement of the uniquely American musical genre, the intimate club stacks its calendar with concerts that will move you and your travel companions.

THE PAGEANT

With its finger on the pulse of the music industry, The Pageant brings sold-out shows to St. Louis week after week, year after year. Designed to create a unique intimacy between performer and audience, it doesn't matter if you stand in the pit or sit in the balcony; you'll always be within 70 feet of the stage.

THE SHELDON

Art without borders – that's the mantra at The Sheldon. Located in the Grand Center Arts District, the concert hall is an inimitable pocket of creative experiences, where the line between artists and audiences is seamless. Attending a performance here will leave you with a story to tell your family and friends back home.

TIN ROOF

Dancing queens, Tin Roof plays the music that you need to bust a move! In the main room, live performances include country hits, classic rock and emo songs, while a DJ controls the dance floor in the back with hip-hop, R&B and house tracks.

Greetings from Route 66

WHERE TO GET YOUR KICKS IN ST. LOUIS

In 2026, the Mother Road will turn 100, and there's no time like the present to plan your celebratory journey. Traversing St. Louis, Route 66 changed course a few times, so there are multiple roads that you can cruise – purists will want to travel all of them!

THE CHASE PARK PLAZA

In its heyday, Route 66 was packed with down-on-their-luck dreamers in search of better lives, but well-heeled wanderers traveled the motorway, too – and they stayed at The Chase.

OLD CHAIN OF ROCKS BRIDGE

This was the original Mississippi River crossing on Route 66, and although cars no longer run across it, you can! The one-mile-long pedestrian bridge has a dramatic 22-degree bend in the middle, and it ends at a brand-new park on the Missouri side.

MERAMEC CAVERNS

Journey underground to see the astounding formations at the oldest tourist attraction on Route 66. The buried oasis is a cool 60 degrees year-round, and you can supplement the spectacular experience with zip line and riverboat tours.

TED DREWES FROZEN CUSTARD

An irresistible icon along the original Route 66, Ted Drewes has served hot fudge sundaes, ice cream sodas and creamy "concretes" to motorists for more than 95 years. Created in 1959, the concrete is a malt or shake so thick that it's served upside down!

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF TRANSPORTATION

Travel from the past to the future via planes, trains and automobiles. Among the museum's major exhibits, don't miss Bobby Darin's dream car and the façade of the Coral Court Motel, which had a prime location on Route 66 until it closed in 1993.

City Foundry STL

City Foundry is a mecca of amusement. Housed in the tastefully transformed 100-year-old Century Electric Co. factory in Midtown, it provides enough fun for an entire weekend. Depending on your schedule, we recommend feasting at the food hall, sipping cocktails at None of the Above, teeing off at Puttshack, marveling at the Museum of Illusions, experiencing The Big Show at Alamo Drafthouse and enjoying an intimate performance at City Winery St. Louis, among other activities.

CITY FOUNDRY STL

The District

The District in Chesterfield has entertainment for everyone. At Main Event, bowling, billiards, laser tag and escape rooms offer unlimited fun under one roof, while Topgolf allows you to perfect your swing in climate-controlled hitting bays. 4 Hands at The District also serves up craft beer and pub grub, and it's the perfect stop before attending an event at The Factory. Rock on!
